KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk: Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of foreign currency denominated fixed income collective schemes (target funds), due to a rise in interest rates as a result of adverse market conditions, unfavorable developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where the underlying securities of the target funds are issued or traded, or other issuer-specific factors.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the inability of the target funds to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among others.

Country Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of the focus countries of the target fund which may adversely affect its value.

FX Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the fund value when the market value of foreign currency denominated target funds are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global fixed income markets declined in April with the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index returning -2.5% due to shifting rate expectations. Inflation remained the spotlight for the month, as the Consumer Price Index (CPI) in the US for March ticked up 0.4% month-on-month, taking annual inflation to 3.5%. Eurozone inflation remained stable at 2.4%. European Central Bank (ECB) president Christine Lagarde continued to signal June as an appropriate time to ease monetary policy conditions. The US Federal Reserve, ECB, and Bank of England all left their key interest rates unchanged at 5.50%, 4.00% and 5.25%, respectively. Within government bonds, US led the sell-off, with the 10-year Treasury yield rising 48 basis points to 4.7% as the market embraced a higher-for-longer narrative regarding interest rates. Eurozone rates markets also sold off in April but yields rose less than US Treasuries as inflation came in-line with market expectations. Within the credit space, high-yield and emerging market fixed income securities outperformed comparable government and investment-grade bonds amid the continued resilience of economies. Credit spreads modestly tightened with US investment grade, US high-yield and emerging-market spreads narrowing by 2.8, 3.0 and 7.2 basis points, respectively.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -1.98% in April, outperforming the benchmark by 56 basis points.

Fund Strategy. We expect fixed-income markets to remain volatile in the near term but are of the view that while markets have already priced in peak interest rates, interest rates will continue to be elevated as inflation remains above the central banks targets and timing of the expected rate cuts remains uncertain. Against this backdrop, the fund will continue to have a balanced allocation of safe fixed income assets (e.g. government bonds and high rated bonds) and riskier fixed income assets such as corporate and EM bonds for yield enhancement. In terms of corporate bonds, we continue to be selective on issuers with a preference for higher quality names in both investment grade and non-investment grade sectors.
