OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Asian equities ended the month mostly in the green. Improved macro-economic data in China, continued demand for AI, and the Indian elections partly drove the markets. Taiwan and Hong Kong appreciated the most, while the bottom performing markets were Indonesia and Philippines. Taiwan benefitted from continued demand for AI globally along with better-than-expected results in the financials sector. Hong Kong gained, though finished the month off the mid-month highs due to profit taking. Weak macro economic data along with a surprise rate hike in Indonesia trickled down to equity markets as investors sold off. The Philippines lagged as investors remained concerned over sticky inflation, uncertainty around US Fed rate cuts and the weakness of the Philippine Peso against the USD.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 0.88% in May, underperforming the benchmark by 332 basis points. Stock selection in China and overweight in Indonesia detracted from performance.

Fund Strategy. Headline inflation has fallen across the world, though the current conflict in the Middle East could put pressure on shipping costs and energy prices if the situation escalates. China's economic recovery remains two-speed with weakness in real estate and to a lesser extent manufacturing weighing on growth, though government action on the former is seeking to improve the supply-demand mismatch, while consumption looks to be stabilizing. Valuations, even after the recent rebound, appear supportive. While government policies can be erratic, they are more pro-growth and pro-business, and wide-ranging stimulus measures are expected to deliver cumulative benefits as 2024 unfolds. However, the authorities are more focused on managing risks to growth rather than underwriting a broad-based recovery. In contrast to China, prospects in other regions look to be more encouraging. In India and Indonesia, while valuations look stretched in the near term, the two countries supported by policy actions over the last several years look to be enjoying an investment-led expansion. Finally, tech-heavy North Asia looks increasingly well positioned as the sector positions for the next decade's big trends: structural demand for AI, cloud adoption and EVs all set to drive growth. While markets have been more volatile, there are reasons to be more optimistic about Asia Pacific equities: falling global inflation provides central banks room to cut further, the US dollar is down substantially and China's economy is growing, even if the recovery has been delayed and will take longer to unfold than had originally been envisaged. The fund will continue to invest in equity securities in the Asia Pacific region (excluding Japan) that are expected to pay dividends.
